

IPMS Santa Rosa 2006 Summer Picnic

Location: Upper Jackrabbit Group Picnic Area, Spring Lake, California

Date: July 2006

Commentary: Doug Dropeskey

Photographers: John Admire and Chris Zanella

Event (select a picture to view at full size):

Page 1

Upper Jackrabbit Group Picnic Area, Spring Lake

For those needing a visual reference, here it is.

Someone has to be first.

An interesting tree, for those of us who build dioramas.

Steve ponders Chris attempting to start the barbaque.

Brett, realizing his Corona is almost empty, looks for additional beer.

Lon and Jean watch as Chris continues his attempts to start the barbaque.

Brett, Randy, Pat, and other members discuss matters of great gravity in the modeling world.

Steve, Dale, and Paul attempt to recreate a U2 album cover from the 80s.

Club members line up at the barbaque demanding food.

Damn barbaque.

Pat and other club members talk conspiratorily.

With profound sadness, John realizes the barbaque may never start.

Two children discuss the aerodynamic merits of the P-51D Mustang.

The ladies laugh--they are used to men doing this sort of thing.

Much joy was shared by all.

Club members turn their backs on the traitorous charcoal.

So, what are you building?

Randy gives the barbaque one last go.

So, what are you building?

What a pleasant place for a picnic.

The Admire clan smiles for the camera.

Chris, Pat, and Brett talk about what they are building.

The Admire clan, probably discussing something that has nothing to do with models.

I think John ate a bug!

John tells everyone about his horrible bug eating experience.

Lon does not believe John ate a bug.

